

Fuss & O'Neill Announces New LSPs

Boston – Fuss & O'Neill recently announced that Brian Kortz, CPG, LSP, CNU-A, and Timothy Clinton, CPG, LSP, are the firm's newest Licensed Site Professionals (LSP). An individual with an LSP oversees the assessment and cleanup of contamination that has been released into the environment.

Clinton credits the people he's worked with over the years: "For me, reaching this milestone underscores the tremendous guidance I've received from my Fuss & O'Neill colleagues over my 12+ years with the firm. I look forward to using this license to help my Massachusetts clients solve their environmental challenges in a way that protects their long-term interests."

Kortz recognizes the importance of the community he is now a part of: "I am excited to achieve this career goal and honored to be a new member of the LSP community. This licensure will further enable me to work on behalf of Fuss & O'Neill clients to improve the environmental quality of Massachusetts, one site at a time."

Kortz

Clinton

Marshall Joins Robert H. Lord Company

Manchester, CT – Ed Marshall, M. Ed., has joined the Robert H. Lord Company, a dealership of educational furnishings and architectural products throughout New England,

Marshall joins the company as an account executive. He brings extensive experience in both the K-12 and higher education markets and will be representing the company's architectural products division in Middlesex and Suffolk counties in Massachusetts. He will be working in concert with architects and educators to specify telescopic bleachers, auditorium seating, fixed athletic equipment, and other architectural products.

Marshall

Prior to joining the Robert H. Lord Company, Marshall was an account executive representing educational products throughout New England and nationally.

Amenta Emma Promotes Tyre

Stamford, CT – Michael Tyre, AIA, an award-winning designer with Amenta Emma Architects, has been promoted to managing principal of their Stamford office.

He will oversee a staff of six, with Anne Loh Russo serving as lead senior designer.

Tyre joined Amenta Emma as senior associate three years ago from his own firm, Tyre Studio Architects. Since then, he has distinguished himself by leading teams on such projects as the Quinnipiac University Brand Strategy Group, the adaptive reuse and interior transformation of a 19th-century house for the organization responsible for the university's marketing, communications, brand identity, and digital initiatives.

Tyre

Tyre's professional career includes positions at Dean/Wolf Architects, Ennead Architects, and Lewis.Tsurumaki.Lewis Architects in New York.

Cheryl Newton Architects Welcomes Two

Glastonbury CT – Cheryl Newton Architects LLC (CNA) recently welcomed Kimberly Walsh to its team as business development manager.

Prior to joining CNA, she worked as the marketing manager for Consulting Engineering Services in Middletown. With over a decade of AEC industry marketing experience, Walsh's talents include lead generation, graphic design, photography, writing, social media, and website management.

"Kim's experience and enthusiasm for design and construction is essential in Cheryl Newton Architect's growing success," said Cheryl Newton, principal and founder of the firm.

Walsh

Simpson

Kimado Simpson, a recent graduate of University of Hartford, also has joined CNA as an intern architect. He is working side by side with Newton on all the firm's residential and commercial projects. "Kimado is a welcomed addition to the team!" said Newton.

BISNOW

World's largest commercial real estate publication and events producer.

BISNOW BOSTON EVENTS